New Headway iTools makes it easy to use interactive whiteboards and digital technology with Headway. Everything about these resources is user-friendly and supportive - and here's why. First, you don't need any special equipment. Just use what you already have in the school - an interactive whiteboard, a computer, a data projector, an ebeam. New Headway iTools works on all of these, and it doesn't matter which brand of whiteboard you have. Second, you get a full-colour Teacher's Guide in the pack. This shows you when and how to use the activities in the lesson, and includes whiteboard tips so you're never without support. The Guide also appears on the disc, for easy access during the lesson. New Headway iTools saves you time, too. How? Pre-selection ... the activities on the disc are pre-selected from the Student's Book. This means you don't need to go through the book deciding which activities are most suitable for the interactive whiteboard - they've already been researched and chosen for that very reason. Just go ahead and use them in class, with confidence.

includes short sections of explanation with examples, followed by stimulating practice exercises to complete in the book. Feedback and comment sections follow each exercise to enable students to monitor their progress. No previous background in semantics is assumed, as students begin by discovering the value and fascination of the subject and then move through all key topics in the field, including sense and reference, simple logic, word meaning and interpersonal meaning. New study guides and exercises have been added to the end of each unit to help reinforce and test learning. No Excuses - Stephan Thernstrom 2009-07-14

Black and Hispanic students are not learning enough in our public schools, and their typically poor performance is the most important source of ongoing racial inequality in America today—thus, say Abigail and Stephan Thernstrom, the racial gap in school achievement is the nation's most critical civil rights issue and an educational crisis; it's no wonder that "No Child Left Behind," the 2001 revision of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, made closing the racial gap in education its central goal. An employer hiring the typical Black high school graduate or the college that admits the average Black student is choosing a youngster who has only an eighth-grade education. In most subjects, the majority of twelfth-grade Black students do not have even a "partial mastery" of the skills and knowledge that the authoritative National Assessment of Educational Progress calls "fundamental for proficient work" at their grade. No Excuses marshals facts to examine the depth of the problem, the inadequacy of conventional explanations, and the limited impact of Title I, Head Start, and other familiar reforms. Its message, however, is one of hope: Scattered across the country are excellent schools getting terrific results with high-needs kids. These rare schools share a distinctive vision of what great schooling looks like and are free of many of the constraints that compromise education in traditional public schools. In a society that espouses equal opportunity we still have a racially identifiable group of educational have-nots—young African Americans and Latinos whose opportunities in life will almost inevitably be limited by their inadequate education. When students leave high school without high school skills, their futures—and that of the nation—are in jeopardy. With successful schools already showing the way, no decent society can continue to turn a blind eye to such racial and ethnic inequality.
